

MIT's devices utilize a patented delivery system that allows penetration and drug delivery via an ultra fine stream of liquid.

6 times smaller than the smallest needles commonly used (currently, 30 gauge) in the world.